ON THE BLOG

Owning a small business can sometimes be stressful, with nights of lost sleep, slow growth, and overthinking “How can I grow my business to match the vision I have”? The most important things to remember during your business journey are:

- Don't give up! Keep pushing through any obstacles you face, they are weak walls without foundations.
- It's okay to be scared. You succeed when you put yourself in uncomfortable situations.
- Be creative with your ideas. Stay positive.
- Challenge yourself and the business. Give yourself 30 minutes every morning and ask “How can I push myself and the business forward today? This can be done while you getting ready in the morning or as you are driving to work. If you work from home, take a walk outside.
- Set daily, weekly, and monthly goals. Write out a “vision plan” and check off your list as you complete them. You will surprised how many of the goals you complete.
- Network, Network, Network! I can not stress this one enough. Communicate with other businesses in your community. There are also vast platforms to brainstorm with business owners outside your community throughout the United States.
